

International Collaboration of PeriAnaesthesia Nurses ICPAN

Promoting Global Excellence in PeriAnaesthesia Nursing

Thanks to our Nurse Colleagues around the Globe

The International Collaboration of PeriAnaesthesia Nurses (ICPAN) supports Nurses globally. We know millions of Nurses are involved in the pandemic caused by COVID-19, and you spend many hours caring for sick patients everywhere. YOU are World's heroes in this health crisis creating history in 2020, the 200th anniversary of Florence Nightingale's birth and a year in which the World Health Organization has devoted its recognition to Nurses and Midwives for many contributions and sacrifices made to advance public health. The 2020 pandemic has proven that Nurses are the foundation of all health systems, always involved on the front lines in caring for populations in need everywhere.

We honor NURSES for your knowledge, commitment and critical contributions made during this challenging time. You are working long hours at personal risk while leaving loved ones at home, with work efforts that include new tasks and ethical demands. Our collective experiences from this global pandemic will change health care delivery for a long time to come, while putting a sharp focus on the profound value of professional Nursing expertise in health care delivery.

In this most challenging time we encourage you to take care of yourself and balance professional stress with healthy relaxation strategies. We have a global health emergency as never experienced before and, while we do not know how long this pandemic will last, we do know your importance in this fight. If you have experiences from your Nursing work to share, please do not hesitate to communicate with us to send your thoughts, needs, concerns or comments: icpan@icpan.org. We're here for you.

Please remember: Keep a cool head, warm heart, and clean hands!
